In many studies, it has been pointed out that Indian society has undergone radical changes since the 1990s. This is seen in the political sphere in the spread and the deepening of democracy. In terms of the economy, changes are remarkable in the development of the market economy, improvements in living conditions and widening of economic gaps, which is one of the negative impacts of such economic growth. Societally, this has been expressed through the appearance and rise of various social movements. Culturally and religiously, it has been expressed through a parallel rise in assertion of identities by diverse communities. These changes can be seen as the results of embryonic fundamental changes in thought and values of people in India and South Asia.

The unified theme of this project is "Fundamental Changes in Thought and Values in South Asia." One perspective being used to approach this theme is genealogical research along the long timeline of philosophy and thought in South Asian societies, using Ryukoku University's extensive accumulation of research. Another is analysis of fundamental changes in values based on fieldwork research of actual conditions. These perspectives are combined in comprehensive research, with the aim of identifying the sources of changes in the foundations of contemporary Indian and South Asian societies, and the driving power behind them. Special attention is paid to the rise of the Dalits, other lower strata people, and religious minorities, a phenomenon that represents dynamic changes in contemporary Indian and South Asian societies. The project examines the background and theory behind this, with relation to the history of philosophy and thought, and investigates and analyzes changes in peoples' living conditions, consciousness, and sense of values, based on fieldwork research.

The "South Asian Area Studies" Project (FY 2016 to 2021) is being operated and conducted by expanding upon the National Institutes for the Humanities' "Contemporary India Area Studies" Project (Phase 1: FY 2010 to 2014, Phase 2: FY 2015). Ryukoku University is one of six institutions working together, conducting joint networked research. It is joined by Kyoto University (the central research hub), the National Museum of Ethnology (the secondary research hub), the University of Tokyo, Hiroshima University, and the Tokyo University of Foreign Studies.

Message from Rev. Siddhananda Mahathera

Bangladesh is a multicultural country shared by various religious and ethnic communities. Buddhism is one of the most ancient religions of this country, which has been enriching our national culture in many ways from its inception. The available archaeological and inscriptional evidences report that between the 8th and 12th Centuries, Buddhism enjoyed unprecedented patronage from ruling classes and flourished all over the Bangladesh in every aspect of the mainstream life. At that time many renowned and gigantic Buddhist monastic-cum-educational centers were established under royal patronage, which played a vital role in the life and thought of Bangladeshi people and earned reputation all over the world. Many ruins of these institutions have been discovered. Among them the noteworthy are : Sompur Mahavihara, Salban Mahavihara, Vikramasila Mahavihara, Odantapuri Mahavihara, Jagaddal Mahavihara, Devikot Mahavihara, Sitakot Mahavihara, Pandit Vihara and Vasu Vihara. Within these institutions a large number of subjects , not exclusively religious, were the objects of study and these institutions gave birth to many world famous Buddhist scholars, such as Silabhadra, Shantarakkhit, Atish Dipankara Srigyana, Kalyanagupta, Haribhadra, Abhayakargupta, Saramegha, Prabhakara, Luipa, Buddhagyanapada, Buddhaguhya, Buddhashanti, Padmakaraghosa, Dharmakaradatta, Sinhamukha, who contributed greatly to the development of Buddhist Literature by their excellent writings.

But, after 12th century, Buddhism in Bangladesh was overshadowed by many adverse conditions. At that time Buddhists were subjected to more and more hostility and repression from ruling classes and many Buddhist fled to and settled in the littoral and hilly regions such as Chittagong and Chittagong Hill Tracts in the face of adverse anti-Buddhist circumstances. Thus, Buddhism was reduced into a minority religion in Bangladesh. Though all the branches of Buddhism, such as Theravada-Mahayana- Tantrayana, were introduced into Bangladesh, nowadays, the Buddhists of Bangladesh follow the Theravada Buddhist Tradition. Following the past heritage, they have been trying to regain their lost glory by establishing many colorful and magnificent Buddhist monasteries all over the country. As a result, a noteworthy number of monasteries are found in Bangladesh.

I am very much happy to learn that Prof. Dr. Dilip Kumar Barua and Dr. Shantu Barua of Dhaka University and Prof. Yusho Wakahara of Ryukoku University are going to publish a Directory of Buddhist Monasteries in Bangladesh. I firmly believe that it would be helpful to establish connectivity among the Buddhist communities of the world and Buddhist of the world will be able to learn the monastic information of Bangladesh.

Message from Prof. Dr. Md. Akhtaruzzaman

Once upon a time Bangladesh was one of the famous Buddhist Centers. In ancient period innumerable Buddhist Monasteries were established in various corners of Bangladesh as the centers to practice Buddhist religion and culture. These Buddhist Monasteries used to play the role of the monastic-cum-educational institutions. The name and fame of these monastic-cum-educational institutions was spread out throughout the world too. Students and scholars from home and abroad used to come to these educational institutions to earn knowledge as well as to offer knowledge. The contribution of these institutions is undeniable in building and enriching the civilization of Bangladesh. Many archaeological ruins of these monastic-cum-educational institutions are discovered recently which are recognized and appreciated as the unique world heritage. Although the Buddhists are minority in number at present, yet the number of Buddhist monasteries is not poor. These monasteries are also playing a great role in practicing religion, education and culture of the Buddhist communities of Bangladesh. The architectural style of these monasteries is also remarkable. But any single informative list of these Buddhist monasteries was never prepared although it is really important in the study of Buddhist history and heritage.

As a researcher of history and heritage I am very pleased to be informed that Professor Yusho Wakahara of Ryukoku University, Professor Dr. Dilip Kumar Barua of Dhaka University and Dr. Shantu Barua, Assistant Professor of Dhaka University have taken an initiative to develop the Directory of Buddhist Monasteries in Bangladesh, which will be published by the financial support of RINDAS, a research project of Ryukoku University, Kyoto, Japan. This is a well-timed initiative indeed. I welcome this initiative. I believe, the researchers who are interested to Buddhist religion and culture of Bangladesh will get a complete picture of the Buddhist monasteries in different parts of Bangladesh through the Directory, and this Directory will also play an important role to establish relations among the Buddhists at home and abroad. Besides, it will be considered as a unique document of the Buddhist heritage of the contemporary period. I congratulate all involved in this endeavor. Long live Dhaka University. Long live Bangladesh.

Introduction

Yusho WAKAHARA

For three academic years from 2010 to 2012, the Unit 1 Research Group on South Asia of the Research Center for Buddhist Cultures in Asia (BARC) carried out three field surveys of the so-called Bengali Buddhist communities in Bangladesh and eastern India. Kensuke OKAMOTO and I, both research group members and survey participants, also participated in a 2009 preparatory survey in Bangladesh that was carried out during the preparatory phase for establishing the National Institutes for the Humanities' (NIHU) Ryukoku University Center for the Study of Contemporary India (RINDAS). Since the details of this series of surveys can be found in the working papers etc. listed at the end of this introduction, here I will only provide an overview.

【Preparatory Survey】 (RINDAS Project) September 12th - 22nd, 2009

We established a system for collaborative research with the University of Dhaka-affiliated individuals. Upon which we conducted a field survey of the Buddhist communities and monasteries in northern Bangladesh (Uttar Vanga) and eastern Bangladesh (Komilla and Chittagong).

【First Survey】 (RINDAS and BARC Joint Project) August 8th - 22nd, 2010

We conducted a field survey of the Buddhist community and monasteries in Kolkata (West Bengal, India), Kolkata's surrounding areas and in eastern Bangladesh (Chittagong, Cox's Bazar).

【Second Survey】 December 24th - 31st, 2010

After surveying and photographing Sanskrit Buddhist manuscripts possessed by the Varendra Research Museum in Rajshahi (western Bangladesh), we conducted a field survey of Buddhist monasteries and associated facilities (schools, etc.) in Dhaka.

【Third Survey】 December 21st, 2011 - January 5th, 2012

BARC's Approved Project Researcher DR. KAMEYAMA Takeshi (Part-time Lecturer, Department of Humanities, Shigakkan University) accompanied by Professor Dilip Kumar BARUA and other local collaborators, conducted a field survey of the Buddhist communities and monasteries in Chittagong Hill Tracts (CHT).

The first survey was carried out as a joint project with RINDAS covering the Bengali Buddhist communities not only in Bangladesh, but also Kolkata (Western Bengal, India) and Kolkata's surrounding areas. As part of this survey, we were able to meet informally with the leaders of the All India Federation of Bengali Buddhists (AIFBB). At that time we were presented with a copy of their new publication Directory of Theravada Buddhist Temples in Eastern India (AIFBB, Kolkata 2010) by its editor Mr. Brahmanda Pratap BARUA. We then went to Bangladesh, where we showed our local joint research partner Professor Dilip Kumar BARUA and other survey collaborators the publication. They were naturally very interested, but revealed the fact that a comprehensive survey of the many Buddhists and Buddhist monasteries scattered throughout Bangladesh has yet to be conducted. At that time detailed statistical data was unavailable, which consequently made it difficult to accurately grasp the actual situation.

Therefore, we came up with the idea of creating a comprehensive directory of the monasteries in the country similar to the aforementioned Indian publication and proposed a joint project with the University of Dhaka-affiliated individuals. While it goes without saying that it has academic value directly relevant to the research topics we are engaged in, we primarily did so because we thought it would be useful for the Bangladesh Buddhist community itself.

Fortunately individuals affiliated with the University of Dhaka and the Buddhist communities in Bangladesh offered their full support and we were able to create a provisional version of the directory in 2015 as the Directory of Buddhist Monasteries in Bangladesh (A Provisional Edition) from BARC. It was "provisional" because the survey in the Chittagong Hill Tracts (CHT), the home of Bengali Buddhists and site of many monasteries, had yet to be finished. The directory included data on the only 76 monasteries in 11 districts that our local collaborators had surveyed up to that time.

Since then, the University of Dhaka and local collaborators have continued to earnestly conduct the survey. Especially noteworthy is a series of extensive surveys which was carried out by Dr. D.K.Barua, Dr. Shantu Barua, and Mr. Pronoy Barua (Suman) from 2014 to 2015.

Below are the names of the local collaborators in Bangladesh and India who have cooperated with us in this set of surveys. I would like to express my deep gratitude to them.

Dr. Dilip Kumar Barua (Prof., Department of Pali and Buddhist Studies, Faculty of Arts, University of Dhaka); Dr. Harun-or-Rashid (Prof., Dept. of Political Science, Univ. of Dhaka, Vice-Chancellor of Bangladesh National University); Dr. Sukomal Barua (Prof. and Chairman of the Dept. of Pali and Buddhist Studies, Univ. of Dhaka); Dr. Niru Shamsun Nahar (Deputy Keeper [in-charge], Dept. of Public Education, Bangladesh National Museum); Dr. Gyana Ratna (Prof. and Chairman of the Dept. of Oriental Languages, Chittagong University); Dr. Shantu Barua (Assistant Prof., Dept. of Pali and Buddhist Studies, Univ. of Dhaka); Ms. Anu Ching Marma (Researcher, Dept. of Pali and Buddhist Studies, Univ. of Dhaka); Rev. Pragyananda Mahathera (Chairman, Shakyamuni Bauddha Vihar and Banophool Adibashi Green Heart College, Dhaka); Mr. Pronoy Barua; Dr. Dipak Barua (Ex-Prof., Dept of Pali, University of Calcutta); Dr. Saswati Mutsuddy (Associate Professor, Department of Pali, University of Calcutta); Rev. Buddharakkhita (Vidarshan Shiksha Kendra, Kolkata); Mr. Hemendu Bikash Chowdhury (General Secretary & Trustee, Vice President & Trustee of Maha Bodhi Society of India, Kolkata)

It is our great pleasure to present here the full version of the directory which contains the data of 370 monasteries as the result of dedicated efforts by these people. This is the final RINDAS version, but additional information will be added to its Bangladesh version which is expected to be published in near future. For that purpose, we would like to request all the bhikkhus in Bangladesh to send relevant information of their monasteries to the following address:

Dr. Dilip Kumar Barua, Professor, Department of Pali and Buddhist Studies,
University of Dhaka, Dhaka – 1000, Bangladesh.
E-mail: dilipbarua67@yahoo.com

In closing, included is a list of the results of our research on Bengali Buddhists.
